Section 5. Terms of Reference

Title	Offer training to create Trained Master Trainers and Trainers on the Solar PV Technology Training program.
Expected area of expertise	Agency with a pool of trained master trainers and trainers for solar PV technology training

STAR-C is a flagship program of ISA with a mission to build the required capacity in the member countries for accelerated deployment of solar technology and its sustainable adoption at scale. STAR-C program aims to create a platform to build the appropriate capacity of its member countries for transition to solar energy. The interventions of STAR-C lead to a sustainable solar energy supply model and enable essential services like electricity, lighting, livelihoods, education, health, etc., to go the last mile. (Read more about ISA STAR-C here: International Solar Alliance \(isolaralliance.org\))

Background Information and Project Description:

ISA member countries are increasingly prioritizing solar energy for sustainable economic growth and the well-being of their people. The countries require policies and programs for accelerated solar energy uptake to drive investments, innovations, and new industries. The rapid growth in the coming years will eventually impact countries, and despite having huge investments, countries will struggle to find skilled solar installers, system designers, project managers, etc., to address the demand.

ISA aims to develop a pool of trainers in the member countries through this training. The trainers can further train the workforce on various solar energy system deployment, operation, and maintenance aspects. It will help the government prepare a skilled workforce pool to meet the current and future demand for solar jobs. The availability of professionally trained trainers is crucial in meeting the skill demand in the solar workforce and providing meaningful employment to the masses while supporting just transition as the country moves forward to replace conventional energy sources with solar, among many other RE options. A robust ecosystem of skilling on solar energy technology will contribute to socio-economic growth by accelerating solar deployment, attracting investments, promoting entrepreneurship, meeting energy demand, and driving innovation.

Objectives

To train and certify one batch of 10 individuals each in the six countries—Uganda, Ethiopia, Bangladesh, Cuba, Kiribati, and Bhutan—as professional trainers for imparting training on solar PV technology to different categories of workforce, including solar technicians, electricians, installers, supervisors, designers, etc., as per the commonly accepted guidelines in countries.

Scope of Work

ISA intends to leverage the expertise and experience of organizations/agencies/companies to strengthen the capacity of master trainers and trainers for solar technical training. The organizations/agencies/companies must have resources to train and certify a group of 10 individuals each in Uganda, Ethiopia, Bangladesh, Cuba, Kiribati, and Bhutan as trainers for solar PV technology training (pre-, During, and Post Installation training). The six countries have been grouped into two sets to manage the implementation of this assignment.

The bidders can submit a joint technical proposal for all sets.² But must submit separate financial proposals for the two sets. The bidder should specify the priority of the sets if the bidder is submitting proposal for more than one set. One agency can be awarded only one set of countries.

The solar PV technology training includes:

Solar PV Training Category	Training Details	Target Audience
Pre-Installation	Site Assessment, System Design, Layout Design	Graduates with relevant electrical system/energy technology qualifications and experience of working in the solar sector.
Installation	Mounting, wiring & Cabling (AC/DC)
Testing and Commissioning	Pre-commissioning Checks, Continuity & polarity checks, System testing using proper equipment
Operation & Maintenance	Tracking performance, generation data analysis, Preventive maintenance practices, Routine maintenance work
Application Areas	On-grid, off-grid, hybrid solar system, solar street lighting, solar water pumping, solar home system

Task 1: Developing and finalizing the training framework, modules, and materials for the proposed train-the-trainer program.

- Identification of a globally accepted solar PV training framework and guidelines for conducting a train-the-trainer program on solar PV technology.
- Based on the above-identified training framework and guidelines, prepare the framework and outline of the training module for this training program.
- Present and agree on the framework and outline of the training modules for the proposed train-the-trainer program on the solar PV technology aspects identified above in this section.
- The framework should cover the technical and non-technical skills required of a trainer to conduct training on solar PV technology.

² There are 2 sets of countries (Set A- Uganda, Kiribati, Ethiopia) (Set B- Bangladesh, Bhutan, Cuba)

- The technical aspect of the training should cover the subject knowledge of solar PV technology.

- The training should be conducted by a team of one lead master trainer and a pool of master trainers (minimum 3) having expertise in the respective areas of solar PV technology and other soft skills as required for the overall skilling of the participating trainees to become trainers in the future.
- A report of each training program must be submitted to ISA within a week after the completion of the training program in each of the countries.
- The participating trainees must be assessed on the learning and skills acquired using the framework developed for the assessment.
- The contractor must bear all the logistics required for the trainers to deliver the training in all six countries, including travel, lodging, security etc.
- The contractor shall arrange refreshments and lunch for the participants at the training venue.
- ISA will ensure the trainees' participation in the training program. In consultation with the host
